

ABSTRACT

The study deals with the Capiz State University Student Coping Strategies in New Normal Mode of Learning. It aimed to find out the Socio-Demographic profile of the respondents according to age, gender, religion, and monthly income. How CapSU Pilar student come up with new normal classes. To determine the strategies of CapSU Pilar Student in new normal mode of learning.

This study covers the Capiz State University Student Coping Strategies in New Normal Mode of Learning, the total numbers of respondent of the study were thirty (30) student selected proportionately from the six difference courses in Capiz State University, Pilar Campus.

Most of Respondent are the female at the age bracket of 18-21 years old, most of them were roman catholic with their mother finished high school and their father finished elementary, with their mother were housewives and their father laborer, most of them are catholic and their monthly income were 4999 and below.

Most of the respondents are strongly agreed on I installed google classroom to know my activities and assignments and pass it before deadline, I went to my classmate to join during online class using his cellphone because I don't have cellphone, I searched on Google to expand my knowledge on our topic, I go to other places where there is an interest connection during online class with, I borrowed load from my friends or classmate just to attend my online Class, I watched educational content in the television to learn more, I asked my neighbor to connect from their WI-FI to pass my activity on time, I asked my classmate to add me to attend our online class, I Used Gmail to attach my module and send it to our teachers.